Who is a Navigator?

The (CDM) Collaborative Decision-Making Navigator helps racialized families navigate the child welfare system in B.C. Our role as an impartial party is to support and guide families through complex systems with multiple pathways and various challenges.

Family Service

- Helps connect families to local resources
i.e lawyer, housing, counselling
- Initiates meaningful participation in collaborative decision-making
i.e FGC, FCPC, mediation
- Works with family and professionals to ensure everyone's concerns are understood
i.e MCFD, lawyers, mediators
- Creates space for culturally specific needs
i.e Indigenous representatives

Our intention is to provide short-term direct services that help families participate in decision-making. Our hope is to ensure all the pieces of the puzzle are present for a smooth process.

We do not challenge the Social Worker's determination for protection, provide legal advice, or provide any financial supports.

We're here to help families have those difficult conversations.

Sierra Wells, Senior CDM Navigator

Public Education

- Acts as a resource for service providers
- Offers information sessions and workshops to community service providers

Confidentiality

For families, everything discussed with a Navigator is confidential with the exception of our Duty to Report. This means if we learn someone is at risk of immediate harm, we take the necessary steps to ensure safety.

For service providers, there is no additional paperwork involved when working with a Navigator.

What is Collaborative Decision-Making (CDM)?

In Child Protection, the goal is to include family and community members in the planning process. This way, families co-create plans feeling supported and confident in the decisions being made.

Collaborative Decision-Making is:

- flexible
i.e creative problem solving
- family driven
i.e families decide who attends processes
- alternative to court.
i.e decision-making without a judge
